Gordon is currently working on two initiatives that are in the early stages of development and under review by NACo and other relevant stakeholders:

Developing a payment system to backfill taxes lost when land transfers to tribal trust status and exploring the use of tribal identification cards as proof of citizenship for voting purposes.

Gordon also attended the Association of Risk Insurance Pools conference in Nashville. While there, he learned about the growing role of artificial intelligence in the insurance industry, particularly regarding cybersecurity protections for public entities. Discussions also addressed the impact of increasing jury verdicts on insurance policies.

Robert reported that the Road Department is continuing improvements to the new Wolf Point shop. Tin is being installed on the interior walls, with the northeast and west walls completed and work currently underway on the south wall.

Robert also reported that the County Road department is planning road improvements on Lanark Road including moving dirt from ditches, moving fences and building up the road to withstand heavy loads due to increased oil activity and traffic in that area.

Additionally, Robert reported that the County received marijuana tax revenue for the period of November 25 through January 26 totaling $60,761.34, with 50% allocated to the county's budget.

Gordon and Doug also spoke with Wilfred Lambert at the Tribes OEP regarding the old barbershop and in MCA code the County cannot transfer the property to the Tribes they have to bid on it.
